{{first_name}},

You'd looked at ValuSignal 2026 earlier this year. Hansel flagged your name and asked us to reach out before September.

Early bird closed June 15, but he wanted you to have code EARLYBIRD at checkout. It brings the ticket to $187 and it's valid for the next three days.

September 18-19. Fully virtual, no flights, no hotels. Speakers include Kelly Davids (President, The Appraisal Foundation) and Tony Pistilli (Restb.ai, 30+ years in real estate valuation).

Register at valusignal.com/register with code EARLYBIRD. Reply here with any questions and I'll make sure Hansel sees it.

Today is the last day to use code EARLYBIRD. It expires tonight and brings the ticket to $187 at valusignal.com/register.

Early bird closed June 15. This was the three-day extension Hansel held for people he'd already been talking with.

Reply here if anything comes up.

The average appraiser spends more on flights and hotels to attend a national conference than the ticket itself costs.

ValuSignal 2026 takes care of that. September 18-19, fully virtual, seventy-plus sessions on UAD 3.6 readiness, AI workflows, and adding work outside of AMC volume. Malinda Griffin, President of the National Association of Appraisers, is one of the speakers.

Our founder, Hansel Dobbs, approved a promo code for a small group this week. Early bird closed June 15, but this brings the ticket to $187 for the next three days.

UAD 3.6 goes live November 2. Most appraisers I talk to are waiting to see how it plays out, which usually means scrambling when it does.

ValuSignal 2026 is September 18-19, timed specifically so you're ready before it hits. It's 100% virtual, no travel costs, no time away from your desk. Jake Lew, whose firm was the first GSE-verified UAD 3.6 vendor, is one of the speakers.

Our founder, Hansel Dobbs, approved a promo code for a small group this week. Early bird closed June 15, but this brings the ticket to $187 for the next three days.

Most appraisal conferences are built around travel. ValuSignal 2026 is not.

September 18-19, fully virtual, no flights, no hotels, sessions on-demand for three months after the event. Seventy-plus sessions on UAD 3.6 readiness, AI in practice, and where the profession is headed. Kelly Davids, President of The Appraisal Foundation, is on the lineup.

One thing I left out of my last note.

The speaker lineup includes Kelly Davids (President, The Appraisal Foundation), Lisa Desmarais (VP of Appraisal Issues, 30+ years), Malinda Griffin (President, National Association of Appraisers), and Tony Pistilli (Restb.ai, 30+ years).

This is the conversation happening at the top of the profession. UAD 3.6, AI in practice, how Fannie and Freddie are rethinking the appraisal process, and you don't need a plane ticket to be in the room.

Hansel set aside code EARLYBIRD for the next three days. Early bird closed June 15, but it brings the ticket to $187.
