

Speaker FAQ

You're three months out from the first national virtual conference for the valuation profession. Here are the answers to everything speakers ask most — how your session works, what "simulive" means, and what to expect on the day. Keep this handy; nothing here needs action today.

YOUR SESSION FORMAT

Q What is a pre-recorded "simulive" session?

Simulive means "simulated live." You record your presentation with us ahead of time, and it plays to the audience at your scheduled slot exactly as if it were happening live. To attendees it feels like a live session — but the video is already polished and locked in, so there's zero risk of a dropped connection, a screen-share glitch, or a slide that won't advance on the big day.

Q Do I still interact with the audience?

Yes — that's the best part. While your recording plays, you join the session chat and answer questions in real time. You get the polish of a recording and the connection of a live Q&A, without having to present and monitor chat at the same time.

WHY WE PRE-RECORD

Pre-recording isn't a compromise — for a virtual, multitrack event it's the professional standard. Here's what it gives you:

Zero tech risk

No dropped Wi-Fi, no screen-share freezes. Your session plays flawlessly, every time.

Present your best

Record when you're at your sharpest. Re-take anything you like before we lock it.

Free to engage

You're in the chat with the audience instead of wrestling with your slides.

Q How will my session be conducted in Zoom Events?

The entire conference runs inside Zoom Events. You won't be figuring any of this out alone — I'll be with you for the recording, guiding the session from start to finish, and I'll send you simple prep instructions beforehand so you know exactly what to have ready. On event day, your recording is scheduled into the platform and plays automatically at your slot while you join the live chat.

- 1 Prep. I send you short instructions — how to set up your camera, lighting, and slides, plus your recording appointment.
- 2 Record together. We meet and record your session. I run the tech; you focus on delivering your content. Re-takes welcome.
- 3 Tech check. Around August we confirm everything looks and sounds great before it's scheduled.
- 4 Go live. On Sept 18–19 your session plays at its slot in Zoom Events while you answer questions in the chat.

THE EVENT & YOUR MATERIALS

Q The event is multitrack — what does that mean for me?

ValuSignal 2026 runs several tracks in parallel across the two days, so attendees choose the sessions most relevant to them. For you, it means a focused, self-selected audience in your slot — people who chose your topic. Your session time is fixed within the schedule, which is exactly why simulive works so well: it plays reliably in its track no matter what's happening elsewhere in the event.

Q Where do I find slide/deck templates?

Branded deck templates and presentation backgrounds are available in the media kit inside the speaker portal. Please build your slides on these — it keeps every session visually consistent and on-brand, and it saves you from designing from scratch. The portal walkthrough video (linked in your speaker email) shows you exactly where to find them.

IN THE SPEAKER PORTAL / MEDIA KIT

✓ Branded slide deck templates · ✓ Presentation backgrounds · ✓ ValuSignal logos · ✓ Session guidelines · ✓ Your session details

Q What do I need to prepare, and by when?

Build your slides on the branded template, and have your presentation ready by the deck deadline below. That's really it before we meet to record — I'll handle the technical setup with you.

Presentation decks due	July 10, 2026
Tech checks & recordings	Around August 2026
ValuSignal 2026 — live	September 18–19, 2026

Q Can attendees watch after the event?

Yes. Sessions are available on demand for three months after the conference — so your session keeps reaching the audience (and new registrants) long after Sept 19.

Q Anything else worth knowing?

We've made our trainee track (Career Launchpad) free and are actively recruiting from the largest colleges in the U.S. — so you'll be reaching both established professionals and the next generation entering the field. If you know a firm or product that belongs in this room as a sponsor, a quick intro is always welcome.
